

J. GLAMBECK VISITS QUEENSTOWN

(BY JOHN GLAMBECK)
A week ago I made a flying trip to Queenstown but did not have time to get into touch with the citizens, nor get enough information to write properly. However, I saw enough to convince me that this new town has made a wonderful growth since I was there early last spring. One particularly noticeable fact, in not only Queenstown, but in the other cities of the town along the new railroad is that everybody acts as if they were awed boys. Buildings are going up and there is a noise of hammering nails, etc., and the business streets are lined with farmers cars from the surrounding country.

On going into Queenstown from the east the first thing one notices is the new fine graded road that has been laid midway between the two other roads in order to connect the last road. Some people call it the road "Stevens Boulevard," and it is well named as it was there before the new one originated it and put it through and since then, both as councillor and privately, he has done a lot of work.

Coming from the south the first thing one notices is the new school to old Queenstown school was moved to town and rebuilt into a fine two-story school surrounded by good-looking grounds and some trees have been planted out this year.

A brand new depot has been built this year by the C. P. R. instead of that little old bogger that did serve as a railroad station at first. The Crown Lumber here has a very fine layout next to the school grounds and on the street across from it running west excavations are now being made for a big hall, which I understand is being built on shares held by the townpeople and surrounding farmers.

The main business street which faces the railroad is surely being built up and rebuilt. There is a new drug store and insurance office and two hardware stores in the first block. The next one contains several grocery and general stores, post office, pool hall, barber shop, a very fine looking meat market, restaurants, etc. The old beer parlor has become immensely too small to satisfy the many thirsty souls in and around town so, this day I was in when there was standing room only, I was told it will shortly be moved into larger quarters where there will be plenty of room for all.

A brand new bank building is going up on the corner lot on the street facing the railroad and it has been needed for a long time.

Running west, between the new bank and the corner grocery a fine residence street has been laid out and is lined with some very pretty houses and when the prairie now surrounding them is fenced in, broke up and made into gardens with shrubs and flowers it will be a fine street.

There will be several other fine places back of the main street such as a garage, implement shops etc. but I did not have time to look them over closely. However, I was pleased with the look of Queenstown that some day I am going over there again.

TOWN AND DISTRICT

Harry Brown's father arrived Monday morning from Ontario and is visiting him at his farm close to Arden. Mr. Brown is brother of W. B. Brown of Gleichen.

If you wish to hear Frederick Philip Grove, on Monday, September 24th, when the president speaks when the Gleichen Canadian Club hope to have during the next three months, the same member of the club who has made a membership card. The cost is $1.00 and it may be secured from the secretary M. J. Boucher, or any member of the executive: Messrs. Yalton, Evans; Messrs. Macdonald, Gilroy, and Cuthbert, Gleichen, and Cuthbert.

The Value of Frozen Wheat as Hog Feed

The price of good quality wheat usually prohibits its use as a hog feed, but when the grade is impaired by reason of frost, or other damage, with a corresponding lowering of price, the question of its feeding and "hog market" value is important.

To obtain data relative to this important question, an experiment was conducted at the Dominion experimental station, Lacombe, during the fall and winter of 1927-28 with the object in view of not only determining the feeding and "hog market" value of frozen wheat, but also to note the effect of adding a percentage of oats to frozen wheat, or in other words to compare various oat and frozen wheat combinations as ration for growing and finishing hogs for market.

Four lots with ten purebred Yorkshire pigs in each lot, were used in this test. The pigs were received May and June and when the experiment started on August 22 their average age was 23½ months and their average weight 12 lb. One group was fed wheat chop, another group was fed three parts of wheat chop and one part of oat chop, a third group two parts of wheat chop and one part of oat and a fourth group equal parts wheat and oat chop. Tankage was fed to all lots at the rate of eight pounds to ninety-two pounds of grain. Self feeders were used in all.

The frozen wheat used in the experiment, graded No. 6 feed and the oats for the most part graded 3 CW, but was rather variable as to quality. Slighter tankage with guaranteed analysis of 50 per cent, protein was fed.

The results of this test indicated that satisfactory and reasonably economical gains can be secured when frozen wheat is fed to piglets either as a sole grain or in combination with oats. The addition of oat chop, at 51 cents a bushel, while increasing the daily gains and lowering the feed requirement for 100 lbs. of gain, increased the economy of the test.

The test also indicated that frozen wheat may be marketed through hog lots at 71 cents per bushel, when the market price of hogs is 10 cents per lb. and tankage is worth $10 per ton. As the market price of hogs increases or decreases, the "hog market" value of frozen wheat would vary as follows:

When hogs are worth 12 cents per pound, frozen wheat may be marketed at $11.50 per bushel; hogs at 11 cents per pound frozen wheat may be marketed at $10.50 per bushel; hogs at 10 cents per pound frozen wheat may be marketed at $9.50 per bushel; hogs at 9 cents, frozen wheat at $8.50 per bushel, frozen wheat at 8 cents, frozen wheat at $7.50 per bushel, frozen wheat at 7 cents per bushel.

WHEAT POOL NEWS

The new Alberta Wheat Pool terminal will be taken over by the Alberta Pool Elevators organization some time during the latter part of this month. The new terminal which has a capacity of 2½ million bushels, is the largest and most modern elevator in the west. There will be no ceremony in connection with the opening of this new structure.

The Alberta Wheat Pool is paying $1.00 per bushel for wheat delivered back until December 15th, and a dollar for each bushel of wheat delivered after January 15th. Two cents per bushel is the maximum farm storage rate. The total handlings for the 1927-28 season for the Alberta Wheat Pool Elevators has been 77,000 bushels. This year the Pool has 200 bushel elevator.

LONDON TO LONDON BY AIR

Package of air express, especially labeled, at the door of the airport, near the express office. The airplane is the same as the one which carried the express from London to London.

Less than seven days after leaving the airport in London, the express, consisting of four packages of merchandise totaling four hundred and twenty-five pounds, was recently delivered to the express office in London. This achievement was effected by the regular air express service maintained in connection with the trans-Atlantic liners entering and leaving the St. Lawrence River.

In the morning on Saturday the packages left London and were placed aboard the "Empress of Australia" sailing from Southampton at noon. The following Friday they were trans-shipped from the vessel to a plane at Rimouski and the express was delivered to the airport in London three hours afterwards at the St. Hubert airport, whence it was carried on to Toronto. Arriving here in the evening seven hours after leaving Rimouski the packages were picked up by another airplane at the Lewards field and taken to London.

The Canadian Pacific is pleased to have air express in Canada, having service under a special tariff in connection with incoming and outgoing trans-Atlantic liners in the St. Lawrence River.

Not only is express to and from Canada being handled by this arrangement, but domestic air express is also being handled by the bi-weekly service between Montreal and Toronto, and Montreal and Quebec, and the St. Lawrence River. This service serves two purposes. Express service of merchandise is greatly expedited and the cost is considerably ahead of ordinary express. Merchants have made use of the Canadian Pacific Express Air Service to ship flowers to Montreal from Quebec.

Canadian Club Prepare for Prominent speaker

The Gleichen Canadian Club executive met on Tuesday afternoon when important business was transacted. A number of members had attended the convention of the Association of Canadian Clubs in Calgary last week and returned very enthusiastic over this work. A program of endeavor was mapped out for the next month.

On Thursday afternoon Sept. 13th pictures of the Fathers of Confederation and flag will be presented to Alton, Hammer Hill and Shamook schools. On Friday presentations will be made to the Gleichen high and public schools.

On 16th and 20th presentations will be made to Arrowood Consolidated, Cluny, Livingpines and St. Joseph's schools. Members of the Canadian Club will be present at all presentations which will be made at the respective schools. On Monday, September 24th, Frederick Philip Grove will speak to the members of the Club at the Community Hall.

On Oct. 10th, an interesting meeting will be held to transact business and receive reports from delegates to the convention of the Association of Canadian Clubs.

Magistrate Shearer, or Arrowood, will hold small debts court at Gleichen on the second and fourth Saturdays of each month.

Between thirty and forty court cases have been held in Gleichen during the past two months. It is about time a magistrate was appointed for this town.

You will want to attend the Canadian Club on Sept. 24th-Jan at once.

The ladies of the Gleichen Women's Institute are considering giving a harvest home dance on Friday, October 5th.

Did you ever stop to think that it is the business man who not only vertifies who pays for the mail-order catalogue?

STARTLING FACTS ABOUT CONVICT LABOR

After extensive investigation the For-Plum Corporation have produced a motion picture based on the modern convict labor situation. This picture is called "Honor Bound" and is scheduled to be in the Gleichen Community Hall next Saturday evening.

It is the story of John Ogilvie who has been sent to prison through the treachery of a woman. He is equipped with life and is fighting his stubborn transfer to the coal mines in the west. He is now the head of the convict labor union and is fighting for the rights of the convict laborer.

Two carloads of landowners spent last Friday looking over the country around Gleichen and expressed themselves as much surprised at the grain crops they beheld. They were mostly farmers from the western states and it is said most of them decided to locate in this district.

The school picnic held at the river on Labor Day was a very successful affair for the little folks as well as for the big boys and girls who attended. Before a start was made for home big and little extended their most sincere thanks to the teachers Miss Tingler and Mr. McDonald for their thoughtfulness in arranging so pleasant an outing and carrying it out successfully.

Mrs. Thos. Steele of Great Falls, Mont., spent a few days last week visiting her cousin, J. L. Laycock.

Mayor Mike Brown of Nanaka is again to the front with enterprise. This time his worthy has purchased a complete elevator and already has it in operation, a gasoline engine being used.

Dr. G. H. Farquharson arrived from Calgary Monday to locate permanently in Gleichen and to practice his profession here. He has temporarily located in the house formerly occupied by Dr. Shasta, until the new Larkin block is finished, where he has engaged a permanent office.

NEW BRITISH "ZOO"

By a rather novel plan adopted by the Empire Marketing Board, merchandising of British manufactures will be designated by a sort of trademark, whereby articles manufactured in various countries of the Commonwealth will be designated by appropriate animal designs.

According to the scheme proposed, goods originating in the United Kingdom will be indicated by the picture of a lion. Australia by a kangaroo, New Zealand by a kiwi, India by an elephant, South Africa by a springbok, West Africa by a lion cub, Southern Rhodesia by a rhinoceros, West Indies by a turtle, Malaya by a tiger and Canada by a beaver.

It is believed that this innovation will have considerable advertising value and tend to stimulate a demand for products of the various countries of the Commonwealth.

For the benefit of those who may not know, it may be said that the kiwi is a flightless bird, about the size of a hen, having hair-like plumage and a long, upright beak, and found only in New Zealand. The South African springbok is a kind of goat, or antelope, very graceful and swift in its movements.

A somewhat distorted idea of India's bhairavi may be gained by observing American political cartoons during the next few months.

FAMOUS WOMAN HIKER

Of recent years many women explorers have braved the dangers of mountains, river and jungle in search of adventure or scientific knowledge, or both. Among them Mrs. Alicia Renthall, an English woman, is one of the most daring.

For 20 years she has been travelling remote wild regions, mostly on foot, and has been around the world six times. Her wanderings have carried her across Africa several times, as well as into Tibet, Arabia, Siberia, India, Central America and elsewhere.

One remarkable characteristic of Mrs. Renthall is that in her jungle expeditions she goes unarmed, carrying nothing more formidable than an umbrella. She recently said:
"I have been quite close to lions and leopards in the bush, but they have never harmed me or any of my carriers. I always go unarmed, and I think wild animals know by instinct that I have no desire to kill."

FIGHTING UGLINESS

Commendation is due the state highway authorities of Georgia in connection with a recent resolution prohibiting billboards and other advertising signs along the roadways of the state.

Declaring it to be the policy of the highway board to encourage the preservation of natural beauties along its thoroughfares, as well as to promote the planting of trees and shrubs, the resolution further prescribes that all advertising signs be prohibited on the right of the highway, and that the beautifying of the highways be encouraged by the planting of trees and the clearing away of all unsightly objects.

The various women's organizations which are cooperating in the movement for beautification are greatly encouraged by the action of the Georgia authorities and other official bodies throughout the entire country. Forward-looking business men and advertisers are coming to realize that billboards and signs which mar the landscape are detrimental to their business. Some former billboard advertisers are discussing them for this reason.

When we become thoroughly civilized the billboard will not be tolerated in residential sections of towns and cities, nor along the highways.

THERE is nothing that has ever taken Aspirin's place as an antidote for pain. It is safe, or physicians wouldn't use it, and endorse its use by others. Sure, or several million users would have turned to something else. But get the real Aspirin (at any drugstore) with Bayer on the box, and the word genuine printed in red:

Aspirin is the trade mark (registered in Canada) indicating Bayer Manufacture. While it is well known that Aspirin means Bayer manufacture, to assure the public against imitations, the Tablets will be stamped with their "Bayer Cross" trade mark.

"Here are Helmi's letters," at length said Warner; "they belong to you now. They will tell you everything. If we both get over I will take them back, after you have read them. I think if I had had a wife like Helmi I would not have doubted her. I don't think I would. However I am not saying that to hurt you—one knows what he would do. Anyway I am glad I met you, Jack. And your wife is well and so is little Lili.

"And so you see you must get through. I may, but you must, and if you do you will tell Helmi. Come on—our chance is just as good now as it ever will be."

Jack took his hand and pressed it. "Arthur, I can't tell you what I want to say—you have been a better friend to Helmi than I have."

The bridge was a fine iron one, with heavily studded pillars. Every second light was burning. The road leading to it was not much travelled, and as they walked up the long approach their feet made a strange echoing sound. They had left their blue overcoats open, showing the gray German smocks. Jack knew what he was to say in German if accosted, but their hope was that no one was on the bridge. Every step brought them nearer, and the lights ahead of them on the Holland side twinkled like the lights at home.

Jack's heart was in a strange turmoil over what he had heard. . . . On, on—they were half-way over now . . . steps echoing, echoing . . . no sound but the gentle murmuring from the other side, gentle sounds . . . dogs barking . . . cow-bells . . . they must hurry . . . on, on . . . ten feet from the end now!

Suddenly from behind the last pillar stepped out a German guard, who thrust a flashlight in their faces, blinding them with its sudden gleam. At the end of his rifle a bayonet gleamed in the light.

"Halt!" he cried.

"Why do you halt us? We are honest men," said Arthur quietly.

"Give me your passports, then," said the guard, putting away his flashlight, but not lowering his rifle.

Preceding to search his pockets, Arthur moved a little, then like a tiger he sprang on the guard, grasping him around the neck.

"Don't let him get away!" he shouted.

Jack found refuge in the trees on the other bank. There was a queer singing in his head, something droning like a swarm of bees. Then came a sudden pain in his shoulder like a knife thrust, and looking down, he saw the blood running off his fingers. But he must see what happened. He crawled to the edge of the trees and looked back. Three guards were standing together, talking excitedly. He could see nothing of Arthur, but the smoke of rifles still hung around the pillars of the bridge. He crawled back into the trees and lay on the damp leaves, sobbing like a child. He was free; he was safe; but the loss of his friend was heavy on his heart.

CHAPTER XXXI.

It was a hot night in London in the early spring. The lights shone ghostly blue through their painted globes, and across the starless night search-lights stretched their spectral fingers, crossing, passing, converging, crossing again. Through the streets, in spite of the sombre gloom and the dangers of the night, an endless stream of people drifted, making a brave show of unconcern. The theatres were crowded, the dance halls echoed with rhythmic feet, and tinkled with laughter; and a though grief, fear, and a sense of loss walked with every soul in London, the sound of their ominous footfalls were drowned by laughter and singing, true to the brave old British tradition.

At Victoria Station—the V.A.D.'s were assembled with their waiting stretchers, for a hospital train was coming in. There were the usual noises of a great station—hooting of sirens, blowing of horns, calling of railway officials—all the sounds muffled by the vaulted station roof. There was the usual variegated and cosmopolitan crowd, though the dominant note was the khaki of the thick-set, calm-faced Englishman; here the slim Canadian, independent and alert, actually looking for some one, and not ashamed of appearing anxious; there the blue-uniformed French officer, darting through the crowd like a gorgeous bluebird.

They are removing men on stretchers now, and the V.A.D.'s are busy. Very skillfully they manage to roll the bedcases to the stretchers and carry them to the waiting ambulances—pallid faces, all of them, some bandaged, but most of them smiling bravely, too, and glad to be home.

There is one V.A.D. looking very slim in her blue serge uniform who works feverishly. She is returning with an empty wheel she meets the walking cases coming out of their coach, some on crutches, some being helped by companions, arms in slings, bandaged faces, but all on their feet.

She stops with a cry of gladness. "Jack, oh, Jack!" she cries, as a young man with his arm in a sling is passing "Jack—it's Eva—don't you know me?"

She threw her arms around him. "It's my only brother—my only brother," she says to her companions, who wait for her. "Jack, are you a hospital case, or can you come with me? I have a flat, I can put you up. All right, wait for me inside on the first bench—I'll be through in half an hour."

Jack sat on the bench inside watching the crowds endlessly milling around him. He was surprised to meet his sister here when he believed her to be safe in Winnipeg. He wondered what had brought her to London—Eva, the luxury-loving, indolent Eva. It was strange to see her in plain uniform, carrying stretchers. But there was a high look on her face that transformed her. She looked more like the Eva he had known long ago.

Eva came for him at last and led him to the rear of the great station, where endless cars were parked, and put him into one which seemed very small and low.

"We pay a license according to wheel base, you know," she laughed; "and anyway, a car is a car, no matter how small it is. Oh, Jack, it's good to see you, and I have a bed ready for you. I've kept lots of the boys—I've been here six months."

Eva brought him to her flat in Malda Vale, and switched on a light, revealed a luxurious living-room, all in black and silver.

"Do you like it, Jack?" she asked with evident pride. "I work all day in misery and horrors so I have to have beauty at night."

A large black velvet divan, with round black cushions occupied one side of the room, the rug was black with a faint silver border—the fireplace black and white tiles, and on the mantel were silver candlesticks and a silver wrought image of the Madonna. On the black lacquered table stood a silver basket with American Beauty roses.

A slim maid appeared with coffee and sandwiches.

"We'll have a real meal later, Jack," said his sister. "And now tell me where you have been."

"First," said Jack, "tell me how you happened to come over?"

Eva laughed. "You will wonder, I know, but I couldn't stand it after the old crowd broke up—and I guess I missed Humphrey, too, though I won't admit it, because we had a row before he left, and he said things to me I shall never forget. But anyway, everyone was knitting and making bandages, and I couldn't get into it. So I rented the house and I can live easily here on the money. I really like the work I am doing, and I love the boys—they are so brave. I bring them home with me sometimes and write their letters and listen to their stories. I have one little extra room—and really, Jack, I never was so happy in my life. Now tell me your story."

Jack told her of his capture, imprisonment, escape, his friend Arthur Warner and his sacrifice.

Eva's eyes were filled with tears as she listened. "Oh, Jack, wasn't he brave? But why did he do it—why did he love you so?"

"It was not for me—it was his love for my wife!"

"Why, Jack, I didn't know you were married. Now begin at the beginning. Wait, do you want to go to bed first? You look pretty white. I mustn't let you tire yourself. You see I am a pretty good nurse now, and I know how to take care of people."

"No, I am fine," said Jack; "my shoulder is nearly well again. I have had two months in the hospital with it, and I want to tell you all about it."

Jack began with his meeting with Helmi at Eagle Mines; their marriage by the magistrate; the magistrate's objections, and his showing of the newspaper report.

Noted Historian Believes He Has Solution Of Controversy

Dr. Edward A. Walsh, S.J., vice-president of Georgetown University and a noted historian, believes he has in his possession a documental solution to the Grand Duchess Anastasia controversy.

Whether it will uphold the woman now in the United States, under the protection of William B. Leeds, Jr., and known as Madame Tchalokovsky, as a true daughter of the late Czar Nicholas of Russia, or brand her as an imposter, Dr. Walsh will not speculate.

He is certain the mass of documents and records which he recently brought to this country from Europe, will settle, at least in his own mind—whether or not the Grand Duchess escaped the massacre of the Imperial Russian family 10 years ago.

For the past seven years, the Jesuit priest has been conducting a historical investigation into the facts surrounding the deaths of Czar Nicholas and his immediate family. His studies have carried him to Russia, Belgium, France, Austria, Switzerland, England and Italy.

Manitoba Old Age Pensions

Pension Act Has Now Come Into Operation In Province

The Manitoba Government has by Order-in-Council brought into effect the Old Age Pension Act, passed at the last session of the provincial legislature. Beginning on September 1, pensioners whose applications have been approved by the Manitoba Workmen's Compensation Board will receive the stipulated pension of $20 a month.

It is reported that 3,000 persons have already made application for a pension. Effort will be made to review these during the next month to determine the exact number eligible.

Under the terms of federal old age pensions legislation half the cost will be borne by the Dominion Government, while the province will meet the remaining outlay. It is estimated that $300,000 will be required for the initial levy.

All persons who have attained 70 years and have resided in Canada for 20 years and five in Manitoba qualify for a pension.

HE DIDN'T THINK DYSENTERY COULD BE RELIEVED

Mr. John Melling, Fenner, Alta., writes:—"I am a returned soldier, and when I came home from overseas I suffered greatly with dysentery. The doctor said it was chronic and did not think it could be relieved. However, he doctored me for quite a while, but did me no good. One day the druggist asked me if I had ever tried

"On his recommendation I bought a bottle and after I had taken it got some relief, so I got two more, and have never had the dysentery since 1925."

Wrigley Marathon

Four Channel Swimmers Are In the Third Wrigley Swim

Among the three hundred odd entries received up-to-date by the Canadian National Exhibition for the Third Wrigley Marathon, which carries with it to the winner the world's long distance swimming championship as well as a fair proportion of $50,000, are four Channel conquerors.

When Gertrude Ederle set a new mark in 1924, Lord Riddell, owner of the "News of the World" made an offer of £1,000 to the first Britisher to beat her time—man or woman. Norman Derham, after three futile attempts accomplished this, swimming the distance in 13 hours 55 minutes. He is an entrant this year and is now in training at Hanlan's Island. He is a very strong swimmer and seemingly immune to cold water.

Georges Michel holds the record for a quick Channel crossing. He is a Frenchman, took second to Vierkotter last year, and is again in Canada preparing for the hard fifteen mile grind. The distance this year is short for Michel, but he must nevertheless be considered a serious contender.

Millie Gade Corson, of New York City, was the first mother to swim the British Channel. She is one of the greatest women endurance swimmers in the world and will arrive in Toronto shortly to get accustomed to Lake Ontario.

Ernst Vierkotter, the winner of the Marathon last year, has at last commenced intensive training and it is remarked by those who have seen him in action that he has improved his style and speed since annexing the premier prize last year.

The total entries now number considerably over 300.

Record Flowering Plants

Three New Plants Are Recorded By Canadian Horticultural Council

The Canadian Horticultural Council has just recorded three new flowering plants including a dahlia, a geranium, and a bearded iris. The dahlia, that has been named "Kathleen Salmon" is of the decorative type, raised from seed. It was originated by William Salmon, of Midway, B.C. The geranium, named "Norah Baldwin," originated by John M. Baldwin, of Bowmanville, Ontario, is a hybrid resulting from a cross of Zonal with an ivy-leaved geranium. It is double, rose red in color, produces sterile flowers that yield no pollen and does not set seed. It is branching and spreading in habit. The foliage is dark green, and resembles the ivy-leaved parent in shape. The iris, named "Alice Aileen," was originated by Dr. F. G. Brethour, of Toronto. It is a chance seedling, pale lavender blue self color. It is robust in type, the stems reaching 3½ feet. The plant is said to be vigorous, hardy, and reliable in blooming. These three originations will be given thorough test in accordance with the Canadian Horticultural Council policy and if proved worthy, will be fully registered.

Last year Canada won the American Rose Society's gold medal for the Agnes Rose, declared to be the best out door rose originated in North America. It is a product of the Canadian Government Experimental Farm, at Ottawa.

Difficult Period For Britain

Unemployment Situation Is Said To Be Very Acute

"Great Britain is at present passing through one of the most difficult periods she has ever faced," said W. D. Robb, vice-president of the Canadian National Railways, on his return from a two months visit to Europe in connection with matters affecting his departments of colonization and natural resources. "The persistence on a large scale of unemployment continues to be Great Britain's dominant national and economic problem. Though there are seasonal changes, the number of unemployed drawing insurance benefits appears to be stabilized at between 1,000,000 and 1,200,000.

At present the number is 1,242,000 though a year ago it was much lower. "Notwithstanding the increase in unemployment, trade returns for the half of this year show an improvement over the same period of last year. Similar conditions are indicated in the half yearly returns of the big British banks. Apart from the internal distractions it is possible to discern the most encouraging development of recent years."

Find Replica Of Famous Picture

Copy Of Da Vinci's Mona Lisa Reported To Be Discovered In Spain

What is claimed to be a replica of Leonardo Da Vinci's Gioconda, has been discovered in Spain. The picture has what is said to be the signature of the famous painter. It has been deposited for safe keeping, and will be examined by experts.

"Gioconda," which is better known as "Mona Lisa," was probably the most famous female portrait in the world. The accepted original is in the Louvre, Paris. The picture disappeared from the Louvre in August, 1911. It was recovered in Florence in December, 1913.

Vincenzo Perugia, an Italian, was tried for its theft and received a nominal sentence. The picture was painted by Leonardo over a period of four years from 1503-1506.

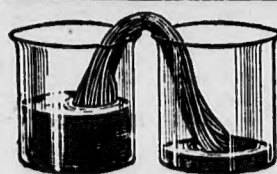

Ancient Copper Mine

Remarkable Find Is Reported On Isle Royale In Michigan

An ancient copper mine, eighty feet long and hidden 30 feet or more beneath a ledge of copper bearing rock, has been unearthed near Hay Bay, on the southern edge of Isle Royale, by archaeologists exploring the island. Dr. George West, Milwaukee scientist, with the expedition, advanced the theory that some early tribe of Indians, perhaps a thousand years ago, dug from the copper veins the ore that was precious to them for tokens for lance heads, arrow points and ornaments.

The jar at left is filled with Gum-Dipping solution. The other jar is empty at first. One end of the wick—made of cords used in Firestone tires—is placed in the solution, the other in the empty jar. Solution penetrates entire length of the cord wick showing that Gum-Dipping saturates the cords.

SUMMER COMPLAINTS

These Tablets will prevent summer complaints if given occasionally to the well child, and will promptly relieve these troubles, if they come on suddenly. Baby's Own Tablets should always be kept in every home where there are young children. There is no other medicine as good and the mother has the guarantee that they are absolutely safe. They are sold by all druggists or will be mailed on receipt of price, 25 cents per box, by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. A little booklet, "Care of the Baby in Health and Sickness," will be sent free to any mother on request.

Declining Birth Rate In Italy

Despite the tax on bachelors, prizes for large families and press campaigns for increasing the population, the birth-rate in Italy is steadily declining. If it were not for the prolificness of the south the situation would be very grave. The Popolo d'Italia gives figures for many big towns, from which it would appear that in all of them deaths exceed births.

It never fails. Good druggists everywhere have sold it for years.

Wool Grading Centre For Vancouver

Plans are reported to be on foot among sheep raisers to establish in Vancouver a wool grading centre similar to that functioning in Trenton, Ontario, where at present most of the wool business of Canada is conducted. An authority states this would probably have the result of increasing the returns to the producer from 25 to 50 per cent.

Teeth and Health

THE INCISORS

You are very particular to keep these eight front teeth (four upper and four lower), white and sound, so their function, then to you, would seem largely esthetical.

But they have another use—from which they take their name—that is—to incise, or cut.

In your child, you have seen them erupt with three distinct tips or tubercles, which by and by have worn down to leave a straight cutting edge.

This nothing is a purely normal development, being due to the calcification of the enamel covering from three separate centres. Now, you have noticed too, with perhaps no little concern, that upon eruption, the two upper front teeth (central incisors) seemed quite out of proportion to the size of the face, giving them an ungainly appearance.

But you must remember this—that while the face will grow larger, the teeth will not increase in size—so Nature has planned with foresight as you might have guessed.

Now try this: consult a mirror, and note the shape of your face. To which of the three types does it incline, tapering, oval or square? Then study the form of your upper central incisor—imagine it inverted, and observe that it conforms to the shape of your face. Nature is very attentive to details, ever striving for harmony.

Remember then, that you must give redoubled zeal to the care of these incisors, which are not merely useful, but are also an asset to your appearance, if rightly cared for.

Miller's Worm Powders were devised to promptly relieve children who suffer from the ravages of worms. It is a simple preparation to destroy stomachic and intestinal worms without shock or injury to the most sensitive system. They act thoroughly and painlessly, and though in some cases they may cause vomiting, that is an indication of their powerful action and not of any nauseating property.

It May Be Urgent

When your Children Cry for It

Castoria is a comfort when Baby is fretful. No sooner taken than the little one is at ease. If restless, a few drops soon bring contentment. No harm done, for Castoria is a baby remedy, meant for babies. Perfectly safe to give the youngest infant; you have the doctors' word for that! It is a vegetable product and you could use it every day. But it's in an emergency that Castoria means most. Some night when constipation must be relieved—or colic pains—or other suffering. Never be without it; some mothers keep an extra bottle, unopened, to make sure there will always be Castoria in the house. It is effective for older children, too; read the book that comes with it.
